Weeks of October 12-17, 2020

Interesting Facts for the Week

In the midst of the Great Depression of the '20s and '30s, a banker named Pat Munroe noticed that people were using their very last nickels to buy a bottle of Coca-Cola. At the time, the Coca-Cola Company was trading for less than cash in the bank, and shares were remarkably cheap. Not only did Munroe invest in multiple Coca-Cola shares himself, he urged many of his Quincy, Florida neighbors to do so. He was a trusted banker, and many of them followed his advice. At $19 per share, shares were relatively cheap—so Munroe kept urging, and the town kept buying. Munroe's observation paid off: the Coke shares, along with his ability to convince others to keep investing even when the market was down, was what saved the town of Quincy from the worst of the Great Depression. The farming town was able to keep afloat during hard times with its Coca-Cola dividends. These dividends have also reportedly saved the town every recession since then, and when crops failed. In addition it brought wealth to the town; Quincy became the single richest town per capita in the entire United States, and at least 67 of its inhabitants were dubbed "Coca-Cola millionaires." They amassed huge fortunes from their early shares, which they passed down through the generations of their families.

this week

After School Detention

Myers

- ⊙ Don't forget to take care of the cancelled Carnival make-up work hours Worksheet. It needs to be turned in by Tuesday, October 20th.
- ⊙ There will be a drill this week—check your Emergency Drill Date Calendar for that particular drill.

next week

- ⊙ These are crazy times. Be prepared for the crazy to continue for at least the next several weeks. Be sure and enforce the face-covering guidelines. I know many of us are of the opinion that face coverings are over-the-top and ineffectual, but it is the only option the State has given us.
