Interesting Facts for the Week

There were more planes destroyed in World War II than there are planes on Earth today. Estimated total number of destroyed and damaged for the war totaled 76,875 aircraft. 40,000 were total losses and the remainder significantly damaged. According to aviation analysts Ascend, the total number of aircraft currently in service is approximately 23,600.

Asparagus grows so quickly during the spring (up to 10" in one 24 hour period, or almost half an inch per hour) that you could literally sit and watch it grow were you so inclined (or that bored).

Norway and North Korea are separated by one country...and...Russia is bigger than Pluto.

Everyone in the world has held the title of being the youngest person in the world but just for a fraction of a second. There are on average about 250 babies born every minute – more than 130 million in a year. It is projected that there will be 11 billion people by 2100. The world population in 1960 was slightly more than 3 billion. The present population is 7.8 billion.
